FLAG

Chapter 2 Flag of the United States

2-1. Authorization

a. The flag of the United States is the symbol of our nation. The union, white stars on a field of blue, is the honor point of the flag. The union of the flag, and the flag itself when in company with other flags, is always given the honor position; for example, the marching right, the flag's own right, or an observer's left facing the flag.

b. The flag of the United States must always be of current design as prescribed by chapters 1 and 2, title 4, United States Code (4 USC chaps 1 and 2). The U.S. flag will always be displayed or carried in ceremonies when any other flags are displayed or carried.

2-2. Time and occasions for display

a. The flag of the United States will be displayed outdoors at all Army installations.

b. Only one flag of the United States will be flown at one time at any continental United States (CONUS) Army installation, except as authorized by the commanding generals of major Army commands (MACOM).

c. The flag of the United States is the only flag that may be flown from a flagpole over a CONUS Army installation unless an exception is granted by TIOH. U.S. Army. However, the Minuteman flag (AR 608-15), the Prisoner of War Missing in Action (POW/MIA) flag, or the Commander in Chief's Installation Excellence Award flag, when authorized, may be flown beneath the flag of the United States without referral to TIOH for exception. Not more than one flag will be displayed below the flag of the United States and, if displayed, will be approximately 6 inches below the flag of the United States.

d. The flag of the United States should be displayed with foreign national flags at overseas installations according to applicable international agreements.

e. The flag of the United States will be displayed daily from reveille to retreat.

f. MACOM commanders may authorize permanent or semipermanent (more than one week at a time) 24-hour display of the flag provided the flag is properly illuminated with its own source of light during hours of darkness. TIOH must be informed in each instance that a MACOM commander authorizes permanent 24 hour display.

g. Local or installation commanders may authorize nighttime displays of the flag of the United States during special events or on special occasions, provided the flag is properly illuminated.

24. Position and manner of display

a. Ceremonies and parades.

(1) The flag of the United States will be carried on all ceremonial occasions when two or more companies or an appropriate honor guard participates. It is always displayed in the position of honor.

(2) When the flag of the United States is carried in a procession with other flags, the place of the flag of the United States is on the marching right; or, if there is a line of other flags, in front of the center of that line. (See fig 2-1.)

(3) The flag should never be carried flat or horizontally but always aloft and free.

(4) When the flag of the United States is displayed from a vehicle, the staff of the flag will be clamped firmly to the right front fender.

b. With foreign national flags. When the flag of the United States is displayed with foreign national flags, all flags will be comparable in size. The flagstaffs or flagpoles on which they are flown will be of equal height. The tops of all flags should be at equal distance from the ground.

c. From staffs.

(1) When a number of flags are grouped and displayed from staffs radiating from a central point, and no foreign flags are involved, the flag of the United States will be in the center and at the highest point of the group. (See fig 2-2 for sequence.)

(2) When a number of flags are displayed from staffs set in a line, the flag of the United States will be at the right; that is, to the left of an observer facing the display (fig. 2-1). However, if no foreign national flags are involved, the flag of the United States may be placed at the center of the line providing it is displayed at a higher level. (See fig 2-3.)

d. With State flags. When the flag of the United States is displayed with State flags, all flags will be of comparable size. They will be displayed from separate flagstaffs of equal height set on the same level.

e. Against a wall

(1) The flag of the United States, when it is displayed with another flag against a wall from crossed staffs, should be on the right, the flag's own right, and its staff should be in front of the staff of the other flag. (See fig 2-4.)

(2) When the flag of the United States is displayed either horizontally or vertically against a wall, the union will be uppermost and to the flag's own right, that is, to the observer's left facing the display. (See fig 2-5.)

(3) When displayed on the wall of a stage, it will be placed above and behind the speaker's stand. (See fig 2-6.)

f. In an auditorium, meeting hall, or chapel. When the U.S. flag is displayed from a staff in an auditorium, meeting hall, or chapel, whether on the same floor level or on a platform, it should be in the position of honor at the speaker's or chaplain's right facing the audience or congregation in accordance with section 173, title 36, United States Code (36 USC 173), et seq., as amended 7 July 1976. Other flags should be placed on the left of the speaker or chaplain; that is, to the right of the audience. (See figs 2-6 and 2-7.)

g. Halfstaff.

(1) For occasions and durations of halfstaff display of the flag of the United States, see AR 600-25.

(2) When the flag of the United States is displayed at halfstaff, it is first hoisted to the top of the staff for an instant, then lowered to the halfstaff position. The flag should again be raised to the top of the staff before it is lowered for the day.

(3) The flag is in a halfstaff position when it is in any position below the top of the pole. Generally the position of the flag is at halfstaff when the middle point of the hoist of the flag is halfway between the top of the staff and the foot. In the case of a flagpole with cross-tree or guy cable, the flag should be halfway between the top of the pole and the top of the cross-tree or point of attachment of the guy cables. (See fig 2-8.)

(4) In accordance with the provisions of section 178, title 36, United States Code (36 USC 178), when the President directs that the flag be flown at halfstaff at military facilities, naval vessel stations abroad, it will be so flown whether or not the flag of another nation is full staff alongside the U.S. flag.

h. Placed in mourning. Flags carried by troops will not be placed in mourning unless ordered by the President or the Secretary of the Army. When so ordered, a streamer of black crepe 7 feet long and 1 foot wide will be attached to the staff at the center of the streamer immediately below the spearhead of the U.S. flag and the organizational flag. (See fig 2-9.)

i. Lowering and folding.

(1) While the flag of the United States is being lowered from the staff and folded, no portion of it should be allowed to touch the ground. The flag should be folded in the triangular shape of a cocked hat. (See fig 2-10.)

(2) For the ceremonies of hoisting and lowering, see FM 22-5.

j. At military funerals.

- (c) Members of the USAR.
- (d) Honorably discharged veterans.
- (e) Retired military personnel.

When a full-couch casket is opened, the flag will be removed, folded to the triangular shape of a cocked hat and placed in the lid at the head end of the casket and just above the decedent's left shoulder. When a half-couch casket is opened, the flag will be folded on the lower half of the casket in the same relative position as when displayed full length on a closed casket. The flag will not be lowered into the grave, and it will not be allowed to touch the ground. The interment flag may be given to the nearest of kin at the conclusion of the interment. (See figs 2-11 and 2-12.)

2-5. Order of precedence of flags

- d. The flag of the United States will always be displayed flat or hanging free. It will not be festooned over doorways or arches, tied in a bow knot, or fashioned into a rosette.
- e. The flag will not be used to cover a speaker's stand or to drape the front of a platform. Bunting of the national colors, arranged with the blue above, white in the middle, and red below, should be used for this purpose and for general decoration.

TOB

TITULAR, a. A person invested with TITULARLY, adv. a. title, in virtue of which he holds an office or benefice, whether he performs the duties of it or not. Cyc.

TITULARITY, n. The state of being titular.

TITULARLY, adv. Nominally; by title only.

TITULARY, a. Consisting in a title.

TIVER, n. A kind of ocher which is used in marking sheep in some parts of England. [Local.]

TIVER, v. t. To mark sheep with tiver, in different ways and for different purposes. [Local.]

TIVERING, ppr. Marking with tiver. [Local.]

TIVERING, n. The act or practice of marking with tiver. [Local.]

TIVV, adv. [See Tutty.] With great speed; a huntsman's word or sound.

TO, prep. [Sax. to; D. te or tee; G. zu; Fr. au, de; Corn. tha.] This is probably a contracted word, but from what verb it is not easy to ascertain. The sense is obvious; it denotes passing, moving towards. The pronunciation is to or too, and this depends much on its application or its emphasis.

1. Noting motion towards a place; opposed to from, or placed after another word expressing motion towards. He is going to church.
2. Noting motion towards a state or condition. He is going to a trade; he is rising to wealth and honor.
3. Noting accord or adaptation; as an occupation suited to his taste; she has a husband to her mind.
4. Noting address or compellation, or the direction of a discourse. These remarks were addressed to a large assembly.
To you, my noble lord of Westmoreland; I pledge your grace. Shak.
5. Noting attention or application. Go, huckle to the law.
Meditate upon these things; give yourself wholly to them. 1 Tim. iv.
6. Noting addition. Add to your faith, virtue. 2 Pet. i.
Wisdom he has, and to his wisdom, courage. Dehaim.
7. Noting opposition. They engaged hand to hand.
8. Noting amount, rising to. They met us to the number of three hundred.
9. Noting proportion; as, three is to nine as nine is to twenty seven. It is ten to one that you will offend by your officiousness.
10. Noting possession or appropriation. We have a good seat; let us keep it to our selves.
11. Noting perception; as a substance sweet to the taste; an event painful to the mind.
12. Noting the subject of an affirmation. I have a king's oath to the contrary. Shak.
13. In comparison of. All that they did was pious to this. B. Jonson.
14. As far as. Few of the Englishers can count to ten. Quart. Rev.
15. Noting intention.

—Make and points out each man of us for abandoned. B. Jonson.

[In this sense, for is now used.]

16. After an adjective, noting the object; as deaf to the cries of distress; alive to the sufferings of the poor. He was attentive to the company, or to the discourse.
17. Noting obligation; as duty to God and to our parents.
18. Noting enmity; as a dislike to spirituous liquors.
19. Towards; as, she stretched her arms to heaven. Hyden.
20. Noting effect or end. The prince was flattered to his ruin. He engaged in a war to his cost. Violent factions exist to the prejudice of the state.
Numbers were crowded to death. Carleton.
21. To, as a sign of the infinitive, precedes the radical verb. Sometimes it is used instead of the ancient form, for to, noting purpose. David in his life time intended to build a temple. The legislature assembled annually to make and amend laws. The court will sit in February to try some important causes.
22. It precedes the radical verb after adjectives, noting the object; as ready to go; prompt to obey; quick to hear, but slow to execute.
23. It precedes the radical verb, noting the object.
The delay of our hopes teaches us to mortify our desires. Smolbridge.
24. It precedes the radical verb, noting consequence.
I have done my utmost to lead my life so pleasantly as to forget my misfortunes. Pope.
25. It notes extent, degree or end. He languishes to death, even to death. The water rises to the height of twenty feet. The line extends from one end to the other.
26. After the substantive verb, and with the radical verb, it denotes futurity. The construction, we are to meet at ten o'clock, every man at death is to receive the reward of his deeds, is a particular form of expressing future time.
27. After have, it denotes duty or necessity. I have a debt to pay on Saturday.
28. To-day, to-night, to-morrow, are peculiar phrases derived from our ancestors. To in the two first, has the sense or force of this; this day, this night. In the last, it is equivalent to in or on; in or on the morrow. The words may be considered as compounds, to-day, to-night, to-morrow, and usually as adverbs. But sometimes they are used as nouns; as, to-day is ours. Cowley.

To and fro, backward and forward. In this phrase, to is adverbial.

To the face, in presence of; not in the absence of.
I withstood him face to face. Gal. ii.
To-morrow, to-morrow, and to-morrow,
Croops in this petty part from day to day. Shak.

[Note.—In the foregoing explanation of to, it is to be considered that the definition given is not always the sense of to by itself, but the sense rather of the word preceding it, or connected with it, or of to in connection with other words. In general, to is used in the sense of moving towards a place, or towards an object, or in expressing direction towards a place, end, object or purpose.]

To is often used adverbially to modify the sense of verbs; as, to come in; to leave in. The sense of such phrases is explained under the verbs respectively.

In popular phrases like the following, "I will not curse; you shall to, or too," a genuine Saxon phrase, to denotes moreover, besides, L. insuper.

TOAD, n. [Sax. tada, tedige.] A paddock, an animal of the genus Bufo, the Rana Bufo of Linnæ; a small clumsy animal, the body warty, thick and disgusting to the sight, but perfectly harmless, and indeed it is said to be useful in gardens by feeding on noxious worms.

TOAD-EATER, n. A vulgar name given to a fawing, obsequious parasite; a mean sycophant.

TOAD-FISH, n. [toad and fish.] A fish of the genus Lophius, the fishing frog. Cyc.

TOAD-STINK, n. [toad and stink.] A sort of fungous plant that grows in moist and rich grounds like a mushroom.

TOAST, v. t. [Sp. Port. toaster, to toast or roast. Qu. are these from the L. torus?]

1. To dry and scorch by the heat of a fire; as, to toast bread or cheese. [It is chiefly limited in its application to these two articles.]
2. To warm thoroughly; as, to toast the feet. [Not much used.]
3. To main when a health is drank; to drink to the health in honor of; as, to toast a lady. Addison writes "to toast the health," a form of expression I believe not now used.

TOAST, n. Bread dried and scorched by the fire; or such bread dipped in melted butter, or in some liquor. Dry toast is bread scorched, or it is scorched bread with butter spread upon it. Soft toast is made by immersing toasted bread in melted butter, and called dipped toast.

Chapter 2 Flag of the United States

2-1. Authorization

a. The flag of the United States is the symbol of our nation. The union, white stars on a field of blue, is the honor point of the flag. The union of the flag, and the flag itself when in company with other flags, is always given the honor position; for example, the marching right, the flag's own right, or an observer's left facing the flag.

b. The flag of the United States must always be of current design as prescribed by chapters 1 and 2, title 4, United States Code (4 USC chaps 1 and 2). The U.S. flag will always be displayed or carried in ceremonies when any other flags are displayed or carried.

2-2. Time and occasions for display

a. The flag of the United States will be displayed outdoors at all Army installations.

b. Only one flag of the United States will be flown at one time at any continental United States (CONUS) Army installation, except as authorized by the commanding generals of major Army commands (MACOM).

c. The flag of the United States is the only flag that may be flown from a flagpole over a CONUS Army installation unless an exception is granted by TIOH. U.S. Army. However, the Minuteman flag (AR 608-15), the Prisoner of War Missing in Action (POW/MIA) flag, or the Commander in Chief's Installation Excellence Award flag, when authorized, may be flown beneath the flag of the United States without referral to TIOH for exception. Not more than one flag will be displayed below the flag of the United States and, if displayed, will be approximately 6 inches below the flag of the United States.

d. The flag of the United States should be displayed with foreign national flags at overseas installations according to applicable international agreements.

e. The flag of the United States will be displayed daily from reveille to retreat.

f. MACOM commanders may authorize permanent or semipermanent (more than one week at a time) 24-hour display of the flag provided the flag is properly illuminated with its own source of light during hours of darkness. TIOH must be informed in each instance that a MACOM commander authorizes permanent 24-hour display.

TO, prep. [Sax. to; D. te or tee; G. zu; It. che, de; Corn. tho.] This is probably a contracted word, but from what verb it is not easy to ascertain. The sense is obvious; it denotes passing, moving towards. The pronunciation is to or too, and this depends much on its application or its emphasis.]

1. Noting motion towards a place; opposed to from, or placed after another word expressing motion towards. He is going to church.

17. Noting obligation; as duty to God and to our parents.
18. Noting enmity; as a dislike to spirituous liquors.
19. Towards; as, she stretched her arms to heaven. Shyden.
20. Noting effect or end. The prince was flattered to his ruin. He engaged in a war to his cost. Violent factions exist to the prejudice of the state.
Numbers were crowded to death. Clarendon.
21. To, as a sign of the infinitive, precedes the radical verb. Sometimes it is used instead of the ancient ferre, for to, noting purpose. David in his life time intended to build a temple. The legislature assembles annually to make and amend laws. The court will sit in February to try some important causes.
22. It precedes the radical verb after adjectives, noting the object; as ready to go; prompt to obey; quick to hear, but slow to consent.
23. It precedes the radical verb, noting the object.
The delay of our hopes teaches us to mortify our desires. Shak.

25. It notes extent, degree or end. He languishes to death, even to death. The water rises to the height of twenty feet. The line extends from one end to the other.
26. After the substantive verb, and with the radical verb, it denotes futurity. The construction, we are to meet at ten o'clock, every man at death is to receive the reward of his deeds, is a particular form of expressing future time.
27. After have, it denotes duty or necessity.
I have a debt to pay on Saturday.
28. To-day, to-night, to-morrow, are peculiar phrases derived from our ancestors. To in the two first, has the sense or force of this; this day, this night. In the last, it is equivalent to in or on; in or on the morrow. The words may be considered as compounds, to-day, to-night, to-morrow, and usually as adverbs. But sometimes they are used as nouns; as, to-day is ours. Cowley.

To and fro, backward and forward. In this phrase, to is adverbial.

To the face, in presence of; not in the absence of.
I withstood him face to face. Gal. ii.
To-morrow, to-morrow, and to-morrow,
Crope in this petty pace from day to day. Shak.

[Note.—In the foregoing explanation of to, it is to be considered that the definition given is not always the sense of to by itself, but the sense rather of the word preceding it, or connected with it, or of to in connection with other words. In general, to is used in the sense of moving towards a place, or towards an object, or in expressing direction towards a place, and, object or purpose.]

To is often used adverbially to modify the sense of verbs; as, to come in; to leave in. The sense of such phrases is explained under the verbs respectively.

In popular phrases like the following, "I will not come; you shall to, or too," a genuine Saxon phrase, to denotes moreover, besides, L. super.

TOAD, n. [Sax. tada, tadiga.] A padder, an animal of the genus Bufo, the Rana Agro of Linnæ; a small clumsy animal, the body warty, thick and disgusting to the sight, but perfectly harmless, and indeed it is said to be useful in gardens by feeding on noxious worms.

TOAST, v. t. [Sp. Port. testar, to toast or roast. Qu. are these from the L. testis?] Cyc.

FLAG

Chapter 2 Flag of the United States

2-1. Authorization

a. The flag of the United States is the symbol of our nation. The union, white stars on a field of blue, is the honor point of the flag. The union of the flag, and the flag itself when in company with other flags, is always given the honor position; for example, the marching right, the flag's own right, or an observer's left facing the flag.

b. The flag of the United States must always be of current design as prescribed by chapters 1 and 2, title 4, United States Code (4 USC chaps 1 and 2). The U.S. flag will always be displayed or carried in ceremonies when any other flags are displayed or carried.

2-2. Time and occasions for display

a. The flag of the United States will be displayed outdoors at all Army installations.

b. Only one flag of the United States will be flown at one time at any continental United States (CONUS) Army installation, except as authorized by the commanding generals of major Army commands (MACOM).

c. The flag of the United States is the only flag that may be flown from a flagpole over a CONUS Army installation unless an exception is granted by TIOH, U.S. Army. However, the Minuteman flag (AR 608-15), the Prisoner of War Missing in Action (POW/MIA) flag, or the Commander in Chief's Installation Excellence Award flag, when authorized, may be flown beneath the flag of the United States without referral to TIOH for exception. Not more than one flag will be displayed below the flag of the United States and, if displayed, will be approximately 6 inches below the flag of the United States.

d. The flag of the United States should be displayed with foreign national flags at overseas installations according to applicable international agreements.

e. The flag of the United States will be displayed daily from reveille to retreat.

f. MACOM commanders may authorize permanent or semipermanent (more than one week at a time) 24-hour display of the flag provided the flag is properly illuminated with its own source of light during hours of darkness. TIOH must be informed in each instance that a MACOM commander authorizes permanent 24-hour display.

g. Local or installation commanders may authorize nighttime displays of the flag of the United States during special events or on special occasions, provided the flag is properly illuminated.

2-4. Position and manner of display

a. Ceremonies and parades.

(1) The flag of the United States will be carried on all ceremonial occasions when two or more companies or an appropriate honor guard participates. It is always displayed in the position of honor.

(2) When the flag of the United States is carried in a procession with other flags, the place of the flag of the United States is on the marching right; or, if there is a line of other flags, in front of the center of that line. (See fig 2-1.)

(3) The flag should never be carried flat or horizontally but always aloft and free.

(4) When the flag of the United States is displayed from a vehicle, the staff of the flag will be clamped firmly to the right front fender.

b. With foreign national flags. When the flag of the United States is displayed with foreign national flags, all flags will be comparable in size. The flagstaffs or flagpoles on which they are flown will be of equal height. The tops of all flags should be of equal distance from the ground.

c. From staffs.

(1) When a number of flags are grouped and displayed from staffs radiating from a central point, and no foreign flags are involved, the flag of the United States will be in the center and at the highest point of the group. (See fig 2-2 for sequence.)

(2) When a number of flags are displayed from staffs set in a line, the flag of the United States will be at the right; that is, to the left of an observer facing the display (fig. 2-1). However, if no foreign national flags are involved, the flag of the United States may be placed at the center of the line providing it is displayed at a higher level. (See fig 2-3.)

d. With State flags. When the flag of the United States is displayed with State flags, all flags will be of comparable size. They will be displayed from separate flagstaffs of equal height set on the same level.

e. Against a wall

(1) The flag of the United States, when it is displayed with another flag against a wall from crossed staffs, should be on the right, the flag's own right, and its staff should be in front of the staff of the other flag. (See fig 2-4.)

(2) When the flag of the United States is displayed either horizontally or vertically against a wall, the union will be uppermost and to the flag's own right, that is, to the observer's left facing the display. (See fig 2-5.)

(3) When displayed on the wall of a stage, it will be placed above and behind the speaker's stand. (See fig 2-6.)

f. In an auditorium, meeting hall, or chapel. When the U.S. flag is displayed from a staff in an auditorium, meeting hall, or chapel, whether on the same floor level or on a platform, it should be in the position of honor at the speaker's or chaplain's right facing the audience or congregation in accordance with section 173, title 36, United States Code (36 USC 173), et seq., as amended 7 July 1976. Other flags should be placed on the left of the speaker or chaplain; that is, to the right of the audience. (See figs 2-6 and 2-7.)

g. Halfstaff.

(1) For occasions and durations of halfstaff display of the flag of the United States, see AR 600-25.

(2) When the flag of the United States is displayed at halfstaff, it is first hoisted to the top of the staff for an instant, then lowered to the halfstaff position. The flag should again be raised to the top of the staff before it is lowered for the day.

(3) The flag is in a halfstaff position when it is in any position below the top of the pole. Generally the position of the flag is at halfstaff when the middle point of the hoist of the flag is halfway between the top of the staff and the foot. In the case of a flagpole with cross-tree or guy cable, the flag should be halfway between the top of the pole and the top of the cross-tree or point of attachment of the guy cables. (See fig 2-8.)

(4) In accordance with the provisions of section 178, title 36, United States Code (36 USC 178), when the President directs that the flag be flown at halfstaff at military facilities, naval vessel stations abroad, it will be so flown whether or not the flag of another nation is full staff alongside the U.S. flag.

[In this sense, for is now used.]

war to his cost. Violent factions exist to the prejudice of the state.

Numbers were crowded to death. Clarendon.

21. To, as a sign of the infinitive, precedes the radical verb. Sometimes it is used instead of the ancient form, for, to, noting purpose. David in his life time intended to build a temple. The legislature assembles annually to make and amend laws.

The court will sit in February to try some important causes.

22. It precedes the radical verb after adjectives, noting the object; as ready to go;

28. To-day, to-night, to-morrow, are peculiar phrases derived from our ancestors. To in the two first, has the sense or force of this; this day, this night. In the last, it is equivalent to in or on; in or on the morrow. The words may be considered as compounds, to-day, to-night, to-morrow, and usually as adverbs. But sometimes they are used as nouns; as, to-day is ours.

To and fro, backward and forward. In this phrase, to is adverbial.

To the face, in presence of; not in the absence of.

I withstood him face to face. Gal. ii.

To-morrow, to-morrow, and to-morrow,
Creeps in this petty pace from day to day.

[Note.—In the foregoing explanation of to, it is to be considered that the definition given is not always the sense of to by itself, but the sense rather of the word preceding it, or connected with it, or of to in connection with other words.
In general, to is used in the sense of moving towards a place, or towards an object, or in expressing direction towards a place, end, object or purpose.]

To is often used adverbially to modify the sense of verbs; as, to come in; to leave in.

Chapter 2 Flag of the United States

2-1. Authorization

a. The flag of the United States is the symbol of our nation. The union, white stars on a field of blue, is the honor point of the flag; the union of the flag, and the flag itself when in company with other flags, is always given the honor position; for example, the marching right, the flag's own right, or an observer's left facing the flag.

b. The flag of the United States must always be of current design as prescribed by chapters 1 and 2, title 4, United States Code (4 USC chaps 1 and 2). The U.S. flag will always be displayed or carried in ceremonies when any other flags are displayed or carried.

2-2. Time and occasions for display

a. The flag of the United States will be displayed outdoors at all Army installations.

b. Only one flag of the United States will be flown at one time at any continental United States (CONUS) Army installation, except as authorized by the commanding generals of major Army commands (MACOM).

c. The flag of the United States is the only flag that may be flown from a flagpole over a CONUS Army installation unless an exception is granted by TIOH. U.S. Army. However, the Minuteman flag (AR 608-15), the Prisoner of War Missing in Action (POW/MIA) flag, or the Commander in Chief's Installation Excellence Award flag, when authorized, may be flown beneath the flag of the United States without referral to TIOH for exception. Not more than one flag will be displayed below the flag of the United States and, if displayed, will be approximately 6 inches below the flag of the United States.

d. The flag of the United States should be displayed with foreign national flags at overseas installations according to applicable international agreements.

e. The flag of the United States will be displayed daily from reveille to retreat.

f. MACOM commanders may authorize permanent or semipermanent (more than one week at a time) 24-hour display of the flag provided the flag is properly illuminated with its own source of light during hours of darkness. TIOH must be informed in each instance that a MACOM commander authorizes permanent 24-hour display.

(3) The flag should never be carried flat or horizontally but always aloft and free.

(4) When the flag of the United States is displayed from a vehicle, the staff of the flag will be clamped firmly to the right front fender.

b. With foreign national flags. When the flag of the United States is displayed with foreign national flags, all flags will be comparable in size. The flagstaffs or flagpoles on which they are flown will be of equal height. The tops of all flags should be of equal distance from the ground.

c. From staffs.

e. Against a wall

(1) The flag of the United States, when it is displayed with another flag against a wall from crossed staffs, should be on the right, the flag's own right, and its staff should be in front of the staff of the other flag. (See fig 2-4.)

Other flags should be placed on the left of the speaker or chaplain; that is, to the right of the audience. (See figs 2-6 and 2-7.)

(3) The flag is in a halfstaff position when it is in any position below the top of the pole. Generally the position of the flag is at halfstaff when the middle point of the hoist of the flag is halfway between the top of the staff and the foot. In the case of a flagpole with crossbar or guy cable, the flag should be halfway between the top of the pole and the top of the crossbar or point of attachment of the guy cables. (See fig 2-8.)

(4) In accordance with the provisions of section 178, title 36, United States Code (36 USC 178), when the President directs that the flag be flown at halfstaff at military installations, naval vessel stations abroad, it will be so flown whether or not the flag of another nation is full staff alongside the U.S. flag.

h. Placed in mourning. Flags carried by troops will not be placed in mourning unless ordered by the President or the Secretary of the Army. When so ordered, a streamer of black crepe 7 feet long and 1 foot wide will be attached to the staff at the center of the streamer immediately below the spearhead of the U.S. flag and the organizational flag. (See fig 2-9.)

i. Lowering and folding.

(1) While the flag of the United States is being lowered from the staff and folded, no portion of it should be allowed to touch the ground. The flag should be folded in the triangular shape of a cocked hat. (See fig 2-10.)

When a half-couch casket is opened, the flag will be folded on the lower half of the casket in the same relative position as when displayed full length on a closed casket. The flag will not be lowered into the grave, and it will not be allowed to touch the ground. The internment flag may be given to the nearest of kin at the conclusion of the internment. TO, prep. [See to.] D. is or to; G. zu; Fr. à; Ger. zu; Corn. to. This is probably a contracted word, but from what verb it is not easy to ascertain. The same is obvious in its derivative, moving towards. The pronunciation is to or to, and this depends much on its application or its emphasis.

1. Moving motion towards a place; opposed to from, or placed after another word expressing motion towards. He is going to church.

2. Moving motion towards a state or condition. He is going to a trade; he is rising to wealth and honor.

3. Moving action or adaptation; as an expression suited to his taste; she has a husband to her mind.

4. Moving address or communication, or the direction of a discourse. These remarks were addressed to a large audience.

[In this sense, for is now used.]

17. Noting obligation; as duty to God and to our parents.

18. Noting anxiety; as a dislike to spiritual liquors.

19. Towards; as, she stretched her arms to heaven. Shak.

20. Having effect or end. The prince was devoted to his duty. He engaged in a war to his own. William has been to the prejudice of the state.

Numbers were crowded to death.

21. To, as a sign of the infinitive, precedes the radical verb. Sometimes it is used instead of the ancient form, for, denoting purpose. David is his life time intended to build a temple. The legislature necessarily has annually to make and amend laws. The court will sit in February to try some important causes.

22. It precedes the radical verb after adjectives, noting the object; as ready to go; prompt to obey; quick to hear, but slow to answer.

23. It precedes the radical verb, noting the object.

The duty of our hopes teaches us to mortify our desires. Shak.

24. It precedes the radical verb, noting consequence.

I have done my utmost to lead my life as pleasantly as to forget my misdeeds. Pope.

25. It notes extent, degree or end. His language to death, even to death. The water rises to the height of twenty feet. The line extends from one end to the other.

26. After the substantive verb, and with the radical verb, it denotes futurity. The construction, we are to meet at ten o'clock, every man at death is to receive the reward of his deeds, is a particular form of expressing future time.

27. After have, it denotes duty or morality. I have a debt to pay on Saturday.

28. To-day, to-morrow, to-morrow, are peculiar phrases derived from our ancestors. To in the two first, has the sense or force of this; this day, this night. In the last, it is equivalent to in or on; in or on the morrow. The words may be considered as compounds, to-day, to-night, to-morrow, and usually as adverbs. But sometimes they are used as nouns; as, to-day is warm. Cicero.

To and fro, backward and forward. In this phrase, to is adverbial.

To the face, in presence of; not in the absence of.

I withdrew him face to face. Gal. ii.

To-morrow, to-morrow, and to-morrow, Camps in this petty pace from day to day. Shak.

None.—In the foregoing explanation of to, it is to be observed that the definition given is not always the sense of to by itself, but the sense of the word preceding it, or connected with it, or of its connection with other words. In general, to is used in the sense of moving towards a place, or towards an object, or to an object.

young direction towards a place, end, object or purpose.

To is often used adverbially to modify the sense of verbs; as, to come to; to leave to. The sense of such phrases is explained under the verbs respectively.

Its popular phrases like the following, "I will not come; you shall be, or you, a genuine French phrase, to devour someone, besides, I. Shak.

TOAD, a. [See toad, toad.] A pedon, an animal of the genus toad, the toad of the genus toad; a small clumsy animal, the body warty, thick and disgusting to the sight, but perfectly harmless, and indeed it is said to be useful in getting rid of feeding on various worms.

Chapter 2 Flag of the United States

2-1. Authorization

a. The flag of the United States is the symbol of our nation. The union, white stars on a field of blue, is the honor point of the flag. The union of the flag, and the flag itself when in company with other flags, is always given the honor position; for example, the marching right, the flag's own right, or an observer's left facing the flag.

b. The flag of the United States must always be of current design as prescribed by chapters 1 and 2, title 4, United States Code (4 USC chaps 1 and 2). The U.S. flag will always be displayed or carried in ceremonies when any other flags are displayed or carried.

2-2. Time and occasions for display

a. The flag of the United States will be displayed outdoors at all Army installations.

b. Only one flag of the United States will be flown at one time at any continental United States (CONUS) Army installation, except as authorized by the commanding generals of major Army commands (MACOM).

c. The flag of the United States is the only flag that may be flown from a flagpole over a CONUS Army installation unless an exception is granted by TIOH, U.S. Army. However, the Minuteman flag (AR 608-15), the Prisoner of War Missing in Action (POW/MIA) flag, or the Commander in Chief's Installation Excellence Award flag, when authorized, may be flown beneath the flag of the United States without referral to TIOH for exception. Not more than one flag will be displayed below the flag of the United States and, if displayed, will be approximately 6 inches below the flag of the United States.

d. The flag of the United States should be displayed with foreign national flags at overseas installations according to applicable international agreements.

d. The flag of the United States will be displayed daily from eveille to retreat.

f. MACOM commanders may authorize permanent or semipermanent (more than one week at a time) 24-hour display of the flag provided the flag is properly illuminated with its own source of light during hours of darkness. TIOH must be informed in each instance that a MACOM commander authorizes permanent 24-hour display.

(2) When the flag of the United States is carried in a procession with other flags, the place of the flag of the United States is on the marching right; or, if there is a line of other flags, in front of the center of that line. (See fig 2-1.)

(3) The flag should never be carried flat or horizontally but always aloft and free.

(4) When the flag of the United States is displayed from a vehicle, the staff of the flag will be clamped firmly to the right front fender.

b. With foreign national flags. When the flag of the United States is displayed with foreign national flags, all flags will be comparable in size. The flagstaffs or flagpoles on which they are flown will be of equal height. The tops of all flags should be of equal distance from the ground.

c. From staffs.

(1) When a number of flags are grouped and displayed from staffs radiating from a central point, and no foreign flags are involved, the flag of the United States will be in the center and at the highest point of the group. (See fig 2-2 for sequence.)

d. With State flags. When the flag of the United States is displayed with State flags, all flags will be of comparable size. They will be displayed from separate flagstaffs of equal height set on the same level.

e. Against a wall

(1) The flag of the United States, when it is displayed with another flag against a wall from crossed staffs, should be on the right, the flag's own right, and its staff should be in front of the staff of the other flag. (See fig 2-4.)

(2) When the flag of the United States is displayed either horizontally or vertically against a wall, the union will be uppermost and to the flag's own right, that is, to the observer's left facing the display. (See fig 2-5.)

(3) When displayed on the wall of a stage, it will be placed above and behind the speaker's stand. (See fig 2-6.)

f. In an auditorium, meeting hall, or chapel. When the U.S. flag is displayed from a staff in an auditorium, meeting hall, or chapel, whether on the same floor level or on a platform, it should be in the position of honor at the speaker's or chaplain's right facing the audience or congregation in accordance with section 173, title 36, United States Code (36 USC 173), et seq., as amended 7 July 1976. Other flags should be placed on the left of the speaker or chaplain; that is, to the right of the audience. (See figs 2-6 and 2-7.)

g. Halfstaff.

(1) For occasions and durations of halfstaff display of the flag of the United States, see AR 600-25.

(2) When the flag of the United States is displayed at halfstaff, it is first hoisted to the top of the staff for an instant, then lowered to the halfstaff position. The flag should again be raised to the top of the staff before it is lowered for the day.

(3) The flag is in a halfstaff position when it is in any position below the top of the pole. Generally the position of the flag is at halfstaff when the middle point of the hoist of the flag is halfway between the top of the staff and the foot. In the case of a flagpole with crossree or guy cable, the flag should be halfway between the top of the pole and the top of the crossree or point of attachment of the guy cables. (See fig 2-8.)

(4) In accordance with the provisions of section 178, title 36, United States Code (36 USC 178), when the President directs that the flag be flown at halfstaff at military facilities, naval vessel stations abroad, it will be so flown whether or not the flag of another nation is full staff alongside the U.S. flag.

h. Placed in mourning. Flags carried by troops will not be placed in mourning unless ordered by the President or the Secretary of the Army. When so ordered, a streamer of black crepe 7 feet long and 1 foot wide will be attached to the staff at the center of the streamer immediately below the spearhead of the U.S. flag and the organizational flag. (See fig 2-9.)

i. Lowering and folding.

(1) While the flag of the United States is being lowered from the staff and folded, no portion of it should be allowed to touch the ground. The flag should be folded in the triangular shape of a cocked hat. (See fig 2-10.)

When a half-couch casket is opened, the flag will be folded on the lower half of the casket in the same relative position as when displayed full length on a closed casket. TO, prep. [Sax. to; D. te or tee; G. zu; It. Gravio, de; Corn. de.] This is probably a contracted word, but from what verb it is not easy to ascertain. The sense is obvious; it denotes passing, moving towards. The pronunciation is to or too, and this depends much on its application or its emphasis.]

1. Noting motion towards a place; opposed to from, or placed after another word expressing motion towards. He is going to church.

2. Noting motion towards a state or condition. He is going to a trade; he is rising to wealth and honor.

3. Noting second or adaptation; as an occasion suited to his taste; she has a husband to her mind.

5. Noting attention or application. Go, hearken to the law. Dryden.

6. Noting addition. Add to your faith, virtue. 2 Pet. i. Wisdom he has, and to his wisdom, courage. Denham.

7. Noting opposition. They engaged hand to hand.

8. Noting amount, rising to. They met us to the number of three hundred.

16. After an adjective, noting the object; as deaf to the cries of distress; alive to the sufferings of the poor. He was attentive to the company, or to the discourse.

17. Noting obligation; as duty to God and to our parents.

18. Noting enmity; as a dislike to spirituous liquors.

19. Towards; as, she stretched her arms to heaven. Dryden.

20. Noting effect or end. The prince was flattered to his ruin. He engaged in a war to his cost. Violent factions exist to the prejudice of the state.

Numbers were crowded to death. Guaridan.

21. To, as a sign of the infinitive, precedes the radical verb. Sometimes it is used instead of the ancient form, for to, noting purpose. David in his life time intended to build a temple. The legislature assembles annually to make and amend laws. The court will sit in February to try some important causes.

22. It precedes the radical verb after adjectives, noting the object; as ready to go; prompt to obey; quick to hear, but slow to censure.

23. It precedes the radical verb, noting the object. The delay of our hopes teaches us to mortify our desires. Southey.

24. It precedes the radical verb, noting consequence. I have done my utmost to lead my life so pleasantly as to forget my misfortunes. Pope.

25. It notes extent, degree or end. He languishes to death, even to death. The water rises to the height of twenty feet. The line extends from one end to the other.

26. After the substantive verb, and with the radical verb, it denotes futurity. The construction, we are to meet at ten o'clock, every man at death is to receive the reward of his deeds, is a particular form of expressing future time.

27. After have, it denotes duty or necessity. I have a debt to pay on Saturday.

28. To-day, to-night, to-morrow, are peculiar phrases derived from our ancestors. To in the two first, has the sense or force of this; this day, this night. In the last, it is equivalent to in or on; in or on the morrow. The words may be considered as compounds, to-day, to-night, to-morrow, and usually as adverbs. But sometimes they are used as nouns; as, to-day is ours. Cowley.

To and fro, backward and forward. In this phrase, to is adverbial.

To the face, in presence of; not in the absence of.

I withstood him face to face. Gal. ii.

To-morrow, to-morrow, and to-morrow, Creeps in this petty pace from day to day. Shak.

[Note.—In the foregoing explanation of to, it is to be considered that the definition given is not always the same of to by itself, but the sense rather of the word preceding it, or connected with it, or of its connection with other words. In general, to is used in the sense of moving towards a place, or towards an object, or in expressing direction towards a place, and, object or purpose.]

To is often used adverbially to modify the sense of verbs; as, to come to; to leave to. The sense of such phrases is explained under the verbs respectively.

In popular phrases like the following, "I will not come; you shall to, or too, a genuine Saxon phrase, to denotes moreover, besides, L. super.

TOAD, n. [Sax. tada, tedige.] A peddler, an animal of the genus Bufo, the Rana Bufo of Linnæ; a small clumsy animal, the body warty, thick and disgusting to the sight, but perfectly harmless, and indeed it is said to be useful in gartering by feeding on noxious worms.
